Background and Experience:

Rebecca Fuller is a resident of Waterford, Va. and the mother of a 2nd grader at Hillsboro Elementary with two younger children who plan to attend HCA. She grew up in northern Virginia and was blessed to have had a variety of educational experiences that shaped her belief that children must be given freedom to learn through experiential discovery.

She works as a Nurse Practitioner and is dual certified in Oncology and Palliative Care. She holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts from Purchase College, and Bachelor and Master of Science degrees from Columbia University. While at Columbia, she taught as a clinical instructor in the School of Nursing and served as the student representative to the university wide Senate.

Rebecca also worked as a K-6 substitute teacher in the New York City public school system for one year. More recently, she served as adjunct faculty at The George Washington University School of Nursing, where she designed curriculum for the Palliative Care certificate program.
